

Elevated: Young Adult Contemporary Romance

From the author of the YA dystopian romance Possession series, Elana Johnson, comes a new young adult contemporary romance. The last person seventeen-year-old Eleanor Livingston wants to see on the elevator let alone get stuck with is her ex-boyfriend Travis, the guy she's been avoiding for five months. Plagued with the belief that when she speaks the truth, bad things happen, Elly hasn't told Trav anything. Not why she broke up with him and cut off all contact. Not what happened the day her father returned from his deployment to Afghanistan. And certainly not that she misses him and still thinks about him every day. But with nowhere to hide and Travis so close it hurts, Elly's worried she won't be able to contain her secrets for long. She's terrified of finally revealing the truth, because she can't bear to watch a tragedy befall the boy she still loves.

The San Francisco Book Review says of this powerful teen romance novel: The plot is deftly paced, as past intrudes on present, like a photograph emerging in developing fluid. The Desert News on this coming of age romance: It is easy to flow from the first word to the last without ever putting down the book.
