ALASKA GROWN: Building Character through Competition

By Lance Penhale

I wouldn't change how I got to where I am no matter how much I would have been more prepared technically. Wrestling isn't just a sport, it's a mentality, and you don't have to have ever stepped on a mat to have it. I wrestled through basic training, through my computer science classes at West Point, through being 5000 miles away from my family, and I will wrestle through every challenge I find or that finds me: with my head up and my feet under me, driving forward. I have best friends that have and are wrestling through military deployments in Afghanistan and Iraq, my dad who has wrestled through cancer and raising a family that I'm so thankful to be a part of, and a close friend who's wrestled through being sexually assaulted. Wrestling matches are the smallest thing in wrestling.
