

Spring Fever (Transgender and Genderqueer Erotic Romance)

Dotschy doesn't even want to think about love everlasting. When spring comes around and she can't stop smiling at Connor the sweet and sensitive semi-closet trans-curious sometimes-crossdresser, she convinces herself it's just infatuation. But that doesn't stop her from wanting him. When Connor puts on a skirt and heels to take Dotschy out on the town, can she set aside her fear of love and give in to spring fever? This cross-dressing romance contains true love and explicit language. Previously published in the anthologies Girls on Top and My Mistress Thighs. Word Count: 6,800 Excerpt: Connor stood before me in a light pink sweater with pearly plastic buttons. It was the type of sweater a mommy picks out for her little girl. That's the spirit in which Connor dressed himself. His skirt was a more mature grey, slit in the back and just covering his knees. Did he shave his legs? I couldn't tell, through the pantyhose. His shoes matched his sweater. His nails matched his sweater. Connor pulled off the look beautifully. He looked almost elegant in his black Kiss of the Spider Woman wig. His boobs were full and pendulous, but he had a natural paunch to match. Despite his height, he didn't look curiously tall. He looked perfect, actually. His glasses were the same pair he wore as a man. They suited him both ways. Soft. That was Connor dressed as a woman. He was soft. Soft pinks, soft body, soft curves. I ran my hand across his cheek. That was soft, too. No trace of stubble. Before I'd arrived at his house, I wondered if I'd be attracted to Connor dressed as a woman. I was. Even more than I was attracted to Connor dressed as a man. You look beautiful. I kissed his smooth cheek, lingering close. Those sparkling blue eyes were Connor. The clothes were different, but the person was the same. I would easily have made out with him, and not just to see if passers-by would throw stuff at us. You look fabulous, dear, he said. His voice lilted, neither high nor low. Fabulous? I chuckled. You're a woman, you're not gay! Try lovely or gorgeous. A woman can say fabulous. Anyone can. Connor leaned close to my ear and whispered, Dotschy, you're gorgeous. My knees nearly gave out. *** Other titles in the Transgender and Genderqueer Erotic Romance series include: Friends of Dorothy Dressing for Dinner Third Rail A Wolf in Grandmothers Clothing Eclipse the Stars Licorne Spring Fever Everybody Knows Glitter in the Gutter and more! *** Giselle Renarde is a queer Canadian, avid volunteer, and contributor to more than 100 short story anthologies, including Best Womens Erotica, Best Lesbian Erotica, Best Bondage Erotica, and Best Lesbian Romance.
