

Kid Camping from Aaaaaiii! to Zip

This McManus Books edition of Kid Camping from Aaaaaiii! to Zip is nearly identical to the original, which was a selection of the International Reading Association for 1980. Some of the information has been updated and a bit of new stuff added. For example, a host of web sites now exists where kid campers can view and even order a slew of neat camping information and equipment, not exactly Grogans War Surplus but still interesting. Aaaaaiii! is the sound you might hear yourself making if you find a Crawly Thing sharing your sleeping bag... Oops! is what you should try not to say too often while its your turn to be camp cook. Patrick McManuss descriptions of the circumstances that can produce these responses are hilarious. Along with the humor there is practical advice for beginning campers, dispensed with a generous helping of common sense. Here you will find answers to hard questions such as how to tell the difference between hard-boiled eggs and raw... how to keep your matches dry... what to do if you encounter a cow-or a bear. In alphabetical order, these self-contained entries are capsule adventures in camping. Whether your kind of camping is sleeping out in the backyard or hiking to rugged country, you will be better prepared when youve read Patrick McManus on Air, Clothing, Dogs, Emergencies, Macho Guys-and hell keep you laughing all the way to Zip. Illustrated by Roy Doty.
